Area codes 888, 925, and 654 are now the least-efficient, in terms of the number of people that need to call a number before reaching a live person. The 888 and 925 area codes are number ranges, but the 654 code is an actual place with a long history of being the least-efficient. Area codes in the 888, 925, and 654 ranges aren't included in the list of most-efficient US area codes, but the total number of people needed to reach a live person remains. A 1993 report on the least-efficient area code tells us that there were about 8,500,000 people in the 654 code, which spanned parts of West Virginia and Pennsylvania, at the time of the study. That's about 12 people for every single person. The same report estimates the most-efficient areas code at 6,000,000, with people needing to reach a live person in just five other areas. Here's the list of most-efficient area codes: 1. 411 (7,300,000) 2. 317 (5,700,000) 3. 703 (3,800,000) 4. 888 (1,900,000) 5. 646 (1,700,000) 6. 757 (1,700,000) 7. 554 (1,500,000) 8. 916 (1,500,000) 9. 888 (1,500,000) 10. 757 (1,500,000) 11. 972 (1,500,000)
