Anna Sharpless Anna Sharpless (March 29, 1827 – May 31, 1915) was an American educator and educator, born in Brunswick, Maine. She studied at the Union Institute, Connecticut, the Albany Female College, and was head of the female department in the Albany Academy. After graduating in 1845 she taught as a private teacher until she became the principal of the Albany Normal School in 1849. In 1862 she was appointed superintendent of the Normal School for the State of Illinois, now Illinois State University. She served in that capacity until 1872, when she was called to the chair of English and History in Allegheny College, after which she served as its president. Sharpless was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Women and a lecturer and instructor at the Normal School of Ohio and Illinois from 1862 until her retirement in 1899. She was the first woman to get degrees in both medicine and law in the United States, and the first woman to receive a law degree from Rutgers University. She was inducted into the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1881. Q: Is there a way to find font size in a scale? I am using the font size scale in vscode. I am using a specific scale but I would like to figure out a way to get the font size from that scale. A: You can use vscode.editor.tokens but it requires you to make a marker out of the content. You can also create a Pattern to search for the font size marker. You may have to mark the token in order for the pattern to find it. Below is a resource link to learn about patterns. Time Warner Cable's Price Increase Could Well Become The No.1 Story Of Black Friday from the cable-companies-are-stupid dept Even with a lower-than-expected TV penetration rate, cable companies will make substantial revenue gains this year over last, mostly as a result of Internet-enabled services that began appearing on TVs and set-top boxes late last year. Let's say a cable company decided to raise prices over a five-year period. Because Comcast's earnings and dividends are public and so are the earnings of all the other cable companies, we know for sure that Comcast's cable TV-service price hikes and the price hikes of the other cable companies are going to have roughly the same total financial impact on consumers. So, yes, we do know that as cable rates rise, they will disproportionately take a toll on poor households. Here's the chart: If the cable company in question raised prices substantially, without more volume, then that same month, in the middle of Black Friday, sales would fall 9 percent -- and consumers would generally keep returning to the cable company that didn't raise rates in the first place.
